Benedictines The First Custodians Of Learning

It is a truth well known to all historians and scholars that it is due to the zeal of the monks for collecting books and to their labor in multiplying books that the civilization of the ancients was preserved for posterity.

Over 1500 centuries...how learning has changed!

Libraries survived the Middle Ages thanks to Benedictines. And library directors have had to adapt to change.

If you look at the lists in terms of longevity, Mike Kathman is, so far, the longest-serving library director, having served 7 years as SJU's director, and then another 26 as the director of both libraries, for a total of 33 years. Next in longevity is Fr. Benjamin, director for 28 years, then Fr. Alexius, for 17 years – for which, by the time she retires next summer, Kathy will have also served.

Sister Jeanette Roesch, 1913-1916

Founder, Librarian, Directress and Dean

Sister Jeanette Roesch was one of the founders of CSB in 1913, and was its first dean and first librarian. Those of you here back when CSB celebrated its centennial may remember the photo on the right, a super-large, wall-sized version of which once graced the Gorecki Center – first upstairs, and then in the main dining room.

“Dean of the College from 1913-1925, Directress of College 1918-1921, Instructor of Education, Librarian 1913-1916, Foundress of the College, Professor of Philosophy” [quoted from Sisters List, <https://www.csbsju.edu/csb-archives/csbhistory/csbmiscellaneouslists/sisterslist>]

Sister Olivia Egan, 1916-1930

“Sister Olivia hostessing a homecoming tea”

“Sister Olivia taught in the Industrial School and then became librarian and teacher at the academy and the college.

In the college, she served as librarian from 1916-1930.”

Dear Old Girls:

In the library, also, changes have taken place. New book-cases, filled with imposing volumes stare at one from the walls. Sister Olivia says that she has at least one thousand new volumes this Fall, most of them on science and history; she has also two hundred new novels. Still more opportunity for gaining knowledge!

Again I beg of you, if ever you want to know anything special from whether Sister Ulric and Sister Olivia are still chief among the favorite Sisters to whether the picture of Tobias and the Angel is still hanging in the front hall, write and ask. I'll be glad to answer.

With much love from all the Sisters and girls, I remain
Lovingly yours, Esther Nangle.

Next came Sister Olivia Egan, who taught in the Indian Industrial School, in the high school (aka the Academy) and in the college. I found these excerpts mentioning her in the 1923 College Days publication, which was produced on campus but also sent out to St. Ben's alums – who referred to themselves and each other as “Old Girls.” The second one reassures alumnae that Sister Olivia was still “chief among the favorite sisters.”

Homecoming

Mary Tess Donlin demonstrates the perfections of Paint, the riding horse presented by the Minneapolis Chapter.

Mrs. Wolney, who has attended every Homecoming but one since 1900, received the first prize for best attendance.

Mrs. Gertrude Clement and her daughter, Mrs. Carrie Marston. Mrs. Clement was a student at St. Benedict's in 1872. She sent her four daughters to St. Benedict's.

Glendora Bell, 1935-1938

Glendora Bell, librarian at the College 1935-1938, will go to New Orleans on June 28 to be assistant librarian at Loyola University. She says her work as assistant librarian at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, during the past year has been most delightful.

Librarian Killed

The sudden death of Glendora Bell, in an automobile accident at Benton Harbor, Mich., Mar. 26, was a shock to both faculty and students. Miss Bell, former librarian at St. Benedict's, had been employed in a similar position in the public library at St. Joseph, Mich., this past year.

The Benet May 1941

A "Miss Widemeyer" was the next librarian, but we have no information about her. She was replaced in 1935 by Glendora Bell, about whom we don't know much more, and for whom I found no photo, but this notice about her departure for Loyola in New Orleans appeared in The Handshake. A second mention, in the succeeding publication called The Benet, noted her sudden death in a car crash in Michigan in 1941.

Faculty Undergoes Changes

Returning Bennies discovered several new faces among the faculty as well as an absence of some familiar faces. Father Alexander Kovts has replaced Father Paschal Botz on the religion staff. Father Angelo Zankl has returned to the same staff, which, a serious accident forced him to leave after the first few weeks of school last fall. Sister Bernice, formerly principal of Cathedral High School, St. Cloud, is teaching in the department of natural sciences. Stas-Gotzings of this department has been released from teaching to do advanced work in physics at the St. Johns University.

1969-1973 (CSB/SJU)

S. Imogene
Library

At present, Sr. Imogene says, the library contains approximately 227,000 volumes (17,000 of which were added last year), 9,055 reels of microfilm, and 4,300 other microforms. The library receives 1,153 periodicals, 58 of which are newspapers. Since it is a government depository, the Alcuin Library receives selected publications and documents. Sister

Sister adds, "We are in the process of converting from the Dewey Decimal to the Library of Congress system. We began in May of 1968, but because we haven't hired additional staff, and made this a rush deal, we have to do it as time permits. We feel that it is more necessary to get the new things cataloged

SISTER IMOGENE

For those who want help in using the library, Sister Imogene is greatly concerned. "We're here for service, and if we don't know your needs, we can't help you, though we don't have enough staff that we can be out there just waiting for business." There are Like any good effort at public relations, when given the opportunity, Sister Imogene shared with The Record reporter the impressive statistics for the library – including the number of books, microfilm reels and microfiche, periodicals, and government documents. She also notes how short-staffed the library is, as they worked to convert from Dewey to the LC system, but wants students to know – as do we all! – that the library staff are eager to help students.

“St. John’s also has a map collection,” Sister points out, “though not cataloged in the same way books are.” These are stored in the basement. “Mrs. Roske who works downstairs is always willing to help anyone who comes down. Very often they’ll ask Mr. Underwood, and he’ll go down too.” Another service provided is that of the interlibrary loan, which puts all the holdings of the U. of M. library at the disposal of SJU-CSB students for a small fee.

When asked about the library’s physical plant, Sister was quick to seize the obvious point, and replied that the roof is soon to be repaired. “This is terrible, as you know by all the pans that are standing around. You can see the rug here has been pulled back and the pad has been cut out from underneath it, because it’s just like a swamp.”

She also mentions the availability of a map collection in the basement – where “Mrs. Roske is always willing to help anyone who comes down.” ;- ) (And no, that’s not me she’s talking about. I’ve been in Alcuin’s basement a long time, but not THAT long. She’s referring to my mother-in-law, who worked in the library before her son and I started college.) But the headline results when the Record reporter asks Sister Imogene about the building, and Imogene has to admit that there are pans of standing water, wet rugs, and until the roof gets replaced, “it’s just like a swamp” in Alcuin. (It was many years before this problem was finally resolved, right, Bev?) There have been times when that “swamp” expression has applied to the CSB Archives in the basement of Corona Hall...!

“Librarian 1960-1969, Director of CSB/SJU Libraries 1969-1973, Instructor of Elementary Education, Assistant Librarian 1955-1960”:

Chuck Schaeffer, 1974-1977

New librarian booked at CSB

By Kristin Willette

There's a new face behind the book stacks in the CSB library. Mr. Chuck Schaeffer. He comes from us from the University of Denver to replace Sr. Imogene Blatz as acting director of the CSB library.

Ever since CSB-SJU became co-institutional—two campuses in one—in the 1960's, co-ordination of academic specialties and consequently of library resources has been a major task. According to Mr. Schaeffer, the two libraries have attempted to "fill each other's gaps," that is, St.

Benedict's book budget goes mostly for art books, education books and other subjects that CSB courses concentrate on. St. John's library buys more theological and scientific works. Mr. Schaeffer will continue this work, eliminating duplication of materials between the libraries and making information more accessible and complete.

Connection with other libraries in the state will also be developed under Mr. Schaeffer's direction. For example, through the "Ministex" service, reference and research materials unavailable at the CSB-SJU libraries can be obtained from the University of Minnesota libraries. Other programs of this nature are being developed, creating a network of information between the state college libraries. And co-operation with the St. Cloud State library will continue. Presently CSB-SJU students can check books out of SCS libraries on a CSB-SJU ID card.

Mr. Schaeffer feels his task is to develop student awareness about the library and its value as an educational resource.

"Running a library is a little like running a business," explains Mr. Schaeffer. "There is a certain amount of money to spend on your 'product,' books. You select books to buy, then process them. And, in a sense, you have to 'sell' your product."

Mr. Schaeffer plans to "sell" the CSB library by doing a little public relations work which will encourage students to use their library resources. Classes will be offered about the use of the library, and a qualified research person will be available at the library desk at all times to help students find the books and reference materials they need.

According to Mr. Schaeffer, the CSB library has a good number of excellent resources for students to use as tools in self-education. Through his work as director, he hopes to make his "customers" more aware of those resources. "Then," he says, "we hope students will make use of them."

"And, in a sense, you have to 'sell' your product."

Chuck Schaeffer

Photos by Meri May

When Sister Imogene's term as CSB's library director ended, the first non-sister in the position since the 1930s came on board in 1974. Like CSB's president at the time, Stan Idzerda, Chuck Schaeffer was both a lay person and the first male in the role. His stated goals were to increase public awareness of the library, eliminate duplication between the two libraries, do more to instruct students on the use of the library, and make staff more available. (Sound familiar?)

CSB Saint Benedict's Today
A NEWSLETTER FOR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS OF THE COLLEGE

College's Library — how it stacks up

The role of a librarian in the academy has changed in the past few decades. But Ron Frederick, Director of the College of Saint Benedict's Library, has not. He says that in the first decade of his career, about 1968, the library was considered primarily an office of reference. The staff consisted of a few librarians and a few clerical workers. It was a small, quiet place, and it was not until about 1970 that the library began to expand its services. Today, the library is a busy, modern facility with a wide range of services. It is a place where students and faculty alike can find the resources they need to succeed in their studies.

Space Considerations

The library has always been a place of quiet study and research. It is a place where students can find the books and journals they need to complete their assignments. It is a place where faculty can find the materials they need to conduct their research. The library has always been a place of quiet study and research. When Ron Frederick became director in 1977, one of his first tasks was to collect the information needed for re-accreditation. This article in the St. Ben's alum magazine states that "the library has kept pace with modern techniques" by offering microfilm and fiche and by using a teletype machine to transmit book loan requests to something called the "Minnesota Interlibrary Telecommunications Exchange," which you know better nowadays as Minitex. The library staff included Sister Stefanie Weisgram, and Norma Dickau was in Media Services, which operates out of a separate building, St. Wendel Hall (previously the sisters' butcher shop). And there were 37 student employees in the library.

(I just had to include this photo feature from the alumnae magazine showing three participants in a St. Cloud running event – library director Ron Frederick, choral music director Phil Welter, and biology prof Bruce Dickau. The caption says “Some CSB women also ran, but were too fast for the camera.”) Ron’s term as director ended in 1980, but he stayed here – in charge of database searching and other public services – until 1982.

Here Alexius is pictured, appropriately enough, with a book in his hand. He was in charge of the library, yes, but more importantly to me and to posterity, he was the Abbey's chronicler. He, more than anyone else, was the one who wrote down St. John's early history – sometimes in retrospect, but often times as he lived it himself.

"THE BENEFACTORS"

The History of the Upper Mississippi Valley by Charles S. Boyard, of the Wisconsin Historical Company. printed in Menasha Wis. 1881. is an article "The Benedictines," covering pages 371-374 +. Bearing no signature. It is undoubtedly the work of Abbot Alexis Edelbrock, who alone had at his command the detailed facts and statistics contained in it. As Kaiser Winkler 1883 noted it before it was sent in for publication. Many claimed he had written it. That is unlikely.

Almost to a fault...because sometimes his writing for one purpose or in one document contradicts something he wrote in another. Here is a sampling of some of what's in the Archives by Fr. Alexis.

Father Oliver Kapsner, 1934-1939

Fr. Oliver Kapsner was the library director after Fathers Alexius, Basil and Christopher. Fr. Oliver was still around in my earlier days in the library, and this photo shows him petty much as I recall him in Alcuin. He would sometimes take exception to new developments, or to mis-filings in the card catalog. I learned later that he wrote the book – literally – on Catholic Subject Headings, used in library card catalogs all over the world. This photo was taken at the groundbreaking for HMML, to be added, underground, next to Alcuin library. The other photo, from his younger days, is more fun, reflecting his major role in starting HMML's effort to microfilm manuscripts, first in Austria and Germany, and ultimately all over the world.

Father Benjamin Stein, 1939-1967

It was library director Fr. Benjamin who made the case for building a new library, and who was involved in planning, fundraising, publicity, and dealing with the architects when Alcuin library was built. Did you know that Alcuin wasn't supposed to have a basement level? Fr. Benjamin made the case for digging the planned crawl space several feet deeper and gaining all that extra space. It was a big empty room at first, but it wasn't long before it proved essential.

Obituaries

BENJAMIN STEIN, OSB
1910 - 2000

The ninety fruitful years of Father Benjamin, which came to a peaceful close on November 27, 2000, might be summed up with two words: books and bait.

Two days after his first profession of monastic vows he began to work in the library of Saint John's University. There he maintained the focus of his service to the community for the next half-century. One of the highlights of his years as director of the library was his chairmanship of the building committee which guided the renowned architect Marcel Breuer in the award-winning design and construction of the Alcuin Library.

them. He always shared his captured crappies, sunfish, bass and northern with the library staff and community.

Upon his retirement from the library in 1967, he was named the first director of the library. He was also the first to add the 145 chairs to the library in 1967. In his honor, the library was named the Benjamin Stein Library.

Benjamin had a quiet, fun sense of humor; he usually had a smile on his face and a twinkle in his eyes. He had some distain for staff meetings; when the Benjamin Stein conference room was dedicated in his honor in 2005, he joked about the irony of a meeting room named after him, and supposed that it might come to be called the "BS Room." He also loved to fish, and the library staff sometimes enjoyed a fish fry lunch he would fix.

Mister Mike Kathman, 1973-2006

Michael Kathman, Director of Alcuin Library at St. John's, will be the joint library director. Ron Frederick, Director of the College of Saint Benedict Library, will be Director of Public Services for the joint library after July 1.

Libraries Merge

S. Linda Kulzer OSB and Father Gunther Rolfsen OSB, Academic Vice Presidents of the College of Saint Benedict and St. John's University, respectively, have announced a merger of the Libraries on the two campuses. The merger is a culmination of efforts over a ten-year period and will be similar to the relationship that exists for several joint departments of the two institutions.

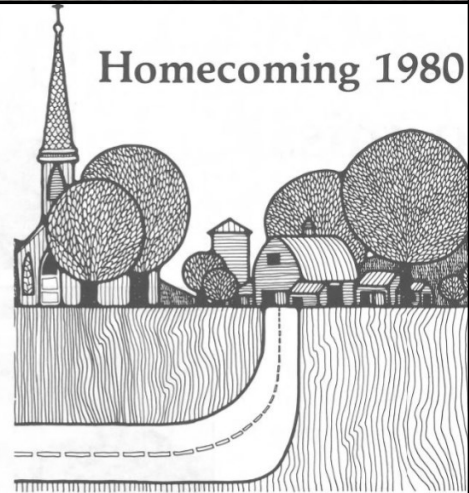

The cooperative venture is expected to provide more and better public services to the combined patronage, effect economies in technical services, and promote a better understanding of library usage.

The Library Instruction Program, already underway, will be expanded on both campuses and the increased presence of professional librarians made possible by the joint arrangement will provide expertise in the use of library resources and services on a joint basis. The combined staffs hold Masters in History of Science, Gerontological Science, Theology, English, American Studies, in addition to the Masters in Library Science.

Benefits of the merger that will be more visible as time goes on include a wider range of materials available on both campuses as a result of a coordinated Collection Development program, a joint catalog, on-line bibliographic searching, and an improved system of materials exchange.

Homecoming 1980

Homecoming Schedule

June 27-28-29, 1980

The libraries went “joint” in 1980. When intra-institutional cooperation took full effect at the libraries, Mike was chosen to become the director of both places. Ron Frederick, director at CSB, became the Director of Public Services for both. (Note the computer at Mike’s desk. It was in the early 1980s that the library got the first personal computer – an Apple IIe.)

1988

By the late 1980s, Mike was overseeing a library staff of 30-something, and had instituted the practice of having annual full staff meetings, usually in August. (And I instituted the practice of having a staff photo taken. Usually Mike and Jim Parsons, the tallest among us, are in the back.) Brothers Paul Jasmer and David Klingeman are still around, though no longer on the library staff...

We had joint staff meetings and workshops with the IT staff, with all of us working toward the same goals of educating and helping students.

...and with a willingness to serve in whatever capacity might be needed, including posing for promotional photos and serving food on the terrace. She has shepherded us through ever-changing technology, through the pandemic, and now through “strong integration,” program reductions, and who knows what else may await us this year! She’s been a great advocate for the libraries, media services, instructional technology – and the archives. Maybe you’d all like to join me in a round of applause?
