What is the Hynes Scholars Program?

This cohort engages in personal exploration and reflection, scholarship, and dialogue concerning the topics of gender and leadership, social justice, self-awareness, and self-actualization. In addition, the Hynes Scholars analyze the opportunities and challenges of being women in today’s society. At the end of this experience, students leave with a clear vision about how they wish to shape the world around them and continue to grow the skills they have learned within the cohort.
Why do we do a Scholarship and Creativity Day Presentation?

- Explore how gender influences leadership
- Explore and develop strategies to create positive social change
- Explore the effects of social expectations that influence women’s roles, experiences and opportunities
- Develop an understanding of self as a leader that explores multiples dimensions of identity
Research Question

What perceptions do CSB and SJU students have about the Gender Wage Gap?

Why does it matter?
Defining the Gender Wage Gap

U.S. Department of Labor (Women’s Bureau):

“Women earn less than men.”

“In 2016, the median weekly earnings for women were 82 percent of the median weekly earnings for men.” (BLS, 2017)
Gender Wage Gap Over Time

- 1979: Women’s earning were just 62% of men’s (BLS, 2014)
- 2012: Women’s earnings were 82% of men’s (BLS, 2014)
- Motivations behind the Gender Wage Gap
Development of Hynes Survey
Developing the Survey

- Previous interest of Hynes Scholars in Gender Wage Gap
- Goal was to gain an understanding of student body knowledge & campus climate about the gender wage gap
- Pulled questions from previous surveys and articles to help shape ours
- Shaped the questions to be relatable to Bennies and Johnnies
- Avoided asking leading questions that would elicit a specific response

Concluding Thoughts
Conclusions from Gender Wage Gap Survey

Why It Matters:

- Perceptions - Action/Inaction
  - Workplace disadvantages
- Awareness of News Consumption
  - Echochambers affect our knowledge

What We Found:

- The gender wage gap is a complex issue
- Varied perceptions on campus
Perceptions

Johnnies:

First Year
● “…the gender wage gap is due to subtle and overt societal factors that affect what specific field men and women decide to go into...it’s not discrimination, it boils down to the priorities that women have.”

Sophomores
● “[women] just have different priorities than men which is the way they are created and wired.”
● “…women ‘earn less’ ...because they tend to have less education than men.”

Senior
● “I don’t know what they put in the water at our schools but it must be some selective memory inhibitor to forget the Equal Pay Act, which according to our school, doesn’t f*cking exist.”
Perceptions (cont.)

Johnnie:
Senior

- “I’m sick of hearing how women are being discriminated against when they pay less than me for studying the same field and have a higher acceptance rate to employment positions post-graduation.”
- “…there are a lot of factors…I would like to add the history of gender divide…it takes along time to recreate culture…we have an old culture where women are domestic and men are breadwinners. This is changing slowly.”

Bennie:
First Year:

- “I think there is a race wage gap (and age and education) too, but if you're calling it "GENDER wage gap," it doesn't encompass everything.”
Perceptions (cont.)

Bennies:

Junior
- “[the wage gap] is not real if you take into account other factors such as a job selection, hours in the workforce, part time vs full time…”

Senior
- “Perpetuating the idea that this exists when it doesn’t only encourages Bennies to feel like victims.”

Unknown

Seniors
- “…the reason women make less in today’s workplace is because of economic decisions, not penises…”
- “…if I am an employer and I can get away with hiring a female and paying her 30% less than what I would pay a male for the same job, I would NEVER hire a man”
Limitations of Gender Wage Gap Survey

What are the limitations to the study?
- We did not account for people outside the gender binary

What improvements would we make if we would do this again?
- When asking “What influences the Gender Wage Gap?”, we should have a “Not Applicable” option
- Ask more questions about how factors affect the Gender Wage Gap
  - ie. How do education levels, age, sexual orientation, etc. affect the Gender Wage Gap?
- Add questions about how the Wage Gap affects intersectionality of men
- Ask why participants filled out the survey (mandatory for a class?)
