FISH COVE

Beneath the dock
from which he casts,
the water is shallow and clear, the sodden earth that bears the weight of liquid is speckled with shoots that will eventually surface into a stage upon which the basso bull frog will perform his aria.
Occasionally, a cloud of dirt smokes the clarity of the transparent lake and his searching reveals the tail fin of a scampering bass near the shore to spawn.
He sits and watches amid the Spring warmth and delicate breezes which incite the lake to gently slap the dock.

He no longer dangles the bait to tease the unsuspecting, no longer allows temptation to linger, that same lure which spurred him to seek refuge and the simple poem this silent swimmer
To read her verse within the enclosure of this cove is the remedy by which he turns from the commotion in his own life, a commotion he has no desire to impart.
