The Personality Profile of Republican Presidential Contender Chris Christie

Aubrey Immelman
St. John's University / College of St. Benedict

Joseph V. Trenzeluk

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.csbsju.edu/psychology_pubs

Part of the American Politics Commons, Leadership Studies Commons, Other Political Science Commons, Other Psychology Commons, and the Personality and Social Contexts Commons

Recommended Citation

Copyright © 2023 by Unit for the Study of Personality in Politics / Aubrey Immelman
THE PERSONALITY PROFILE
OF REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL CONTENDER CHRIS CHRISTIE

(BRIEF REPORT)

Aubrey Immelman and Joseph V. Trenzeluk

Department of Psychology
St. John’s University and the College of St. Benedict
Collegeville and St. Joseph, Minnesota
Unit for the Study of Personality in Politics
http://personality-politics.org/
Telephone: (320) 363-5481
Email: aimmelman@csbsju.edu

June 2023
The Personality Profile of Republican Presidential Contender Chris Christie

Aubrey Immelman and Joseph V. Trenzeluk

This is a brief report\(^1\) of the results of an indirect assessment, in 2015, of the personality of former New Jersey governor (2010–2018) Chris Christie, from the conceptual perspective of personologist Theodore Millon. Christie ran unsuccessfully for the 2016 Republican presidential nomination and in June 2023 declared his candidacy in the 2024 U.S. presidential election.

Psychodiagnostically relevant data pertaining to Christie were collected from biographical sources and media reports and synthesized into a personality profile using the Millon Inventory of Diagnostic Criteria (MIDC), which yields 34 normal and maladaptive personality classifications congruent with DSM-III-R, DSM-IV, and DSM-5.

---

\(^1\)A comprehensive research report will be issued if Chris Christie emerges in the primaries as a viable contender for the 2024 Republican nomination for president.
The personality profile yielded by the MIDC was analyzed on the basis of interpretive guidelines provided in the MIDC and Millon Index of Personality Styles manuals. Christie’s primary personality patterns were found to be Dominant/controlling, supplemented by secondary Ambitious/confident and Dauntless/adventurous patterns and subsidiary Outgoing/congenial and Contentious/resolute features.

Dominant leaders enjoy the power to direct others and to evoke obedience and respect; they are tough and unsentimental and often make effective leaders.

Ambitious leaders are characteristically self-confident, competitive, daring, bold, charming, and skilled at winning others over to their causes and purposes; they easily assume leadership roles, expect others to recognize their special qualities, and may act as though entitled.

Dauntless leaders are adventurous, individualistic, daring personalities resistant to deterrence and inclined to take calculated risks; they may be inclined to shade the truth or skirt the law.

Outgoing leaders are dramatic attention-getters who thrive on being the center of social events and are confident in their social skills and ability to charm and influence others.

Contentious leaders are individualistic and independent, tend to be outspoken or unconventional, and are frequently unhappy with the status quo.

The blend of personality patterns in Christie’s profile constitutes a composite personality type that may be described as that of a high-dominance, self-confident, risk-taking extravert.

Of particular note, the amalgam of Dominant (aggressive) and Contentious (negativistic) patterns in Christie’s profile suggests benign elements of Millon’s abrasive negativist syndrome. For these personalities, minor frictions easily escalate into personal confrontations and power struggles. They are quick to spot inconsistencies in others’ actions or ethical standards and adept at constructing arguments that amplify those contradictions. They characteristically take the moral high ground, dogmatically and contemptuously expose their antagonists’ perceived hypocrisy, and scornfully turn on those who cross their path.